CRISIS AND TRAUMA

Techniques for Grounding

THE BENEFITS OF DEEP BREATHING

One way that you can re-set your body and help to move out of the fight, flight, freeze or trauma response, is to practice deep breathing. Simply take a deep, slow breath and continue to breathe in slowly until you can't breathe in anymore. Then start to breathe out slowly, and continue to breathe out for longer than you breathed in. At the end of your exhalation, you can continue to hold your breath for a count of six.

If you want to increase the effect on your body, you can hug your arms around yourself while you are doing this deep, slow breathing. Even three cycles of deep breathing can help to reset your body and will only take a minute or two.

TRADITIONAL PRACTICES

First Nations people turn to practices they traditionally used in BC or to adopted practices from other Nations in Canada and around the world. Some of these include smudging with sweet grass and sage, cedar brushings, or brushing with an eagle feather. Each practice can provide grounding for individuals.

AFFIRMATIONS ARE POWERFUL

Our thoughts are powerful tools and can change how we feel and behave. Affirmations can shift negative thought patterns and behaviours into positive ones.

What we say has an energy to it and affects ourselves and those around us. Speaking positively is like making a request to the universe. Affirmations can be positive reminders or statements that we use for feeling secure, increasing self-esteem, and becoming more positive, to name a few.

Affirmations can come from within ourselves (by creating them to fit what we need at the time) or they can be something that resonates with us.
